Lorenzo De Sio is Full Professor of Political Science at Luiss, Rome, where he teaches several courses at all levels. There, he directs the CISE (Italian Centre for Electoral Studies) and the Master's Programme in Governo, Amministrazione e Politica (GAP).

Formerly Visiting Research Fellow at UC Irvine, Jean Monnet Fellow at the Robert Schuman Centre of the EUI, Campbell National Fellow at Stanford University, he participated to several international research projects, among which "The True European Voter"(ESF-COST Action IS0806), the "EU Profiler" (2009) and euandi (2014), and since 2004 he is a member of the ITANES (Italian National Election Studies). Principal Investigator of the international Issue Competition Comparative Project (ICCP, 2017-ongoing), he is now also the Principal Investigator of the POSTGEN (Generational gap and post-ideological politics in Italy) project, involving four Italian universities and funded by the Italian Government (€730K project budget) under the PRIN (Projects of Relevant National Interest) scheme.

His current research interests are focused (under a mostly quantitative approach) on political attitudes, voting behaviour and party competition in comparative perspective, with a specific focus on the role of issues in party strategy, leading to post-ideological competition. Among his publications, beyond several books and edited books in Italian and English, are articles appearing in journals such as the American Political Science Review, Comparative Political Studies, Electoral Studies, Party Politics, Political Psychology, West European Politics, South European Society and Politics, and all major Italian political science journals.

From a previous professional experience as computer programmer and ICT entrepreneur (1995-2004) he retains a passion for computer programming. He still occasionally develops personal tools in various languages; one of them is the staR project, an open-source R-based online Stata emulator he successfully adopts in introductory courses on quantitative methods. He is currently a member of the Steering Committee of the MEDem international research infrastructure.

He is married with Marinella and father of Vittorio. His primary non-professional interest is pop and rock music; in the 1990s and 2000s he has played bass and drums in many independent bands in the Florence area on a semi-professional basis.
